

Appendix A - References

The following general list of books, reports, and articles, in conjunction with the various suggestions provided within this volume, should prove useful for preparers of community impact assessments. This list includes reference materials related to the following topics:

- Agriculture and rural lands
- Demography and census
- Economic forecasting and fiscal analysis
- Environmental justice
- Growth inducement and land use
- Planning and socioeconomic assessments
- Public and minority involvement
- Secondary and cumulative impacts

Please note that many of the articles listed below may be available to Caltrans staff using Caltrans computers through the California DOT Library account at Sage Journal Online (<http://jpl.sagepub.com/>).
